Peony Duchesse de Nemours

Duchesse de Nemours is the most snow-white Peony in the world. This makes the Peony Duchesse de Nemours excellent for weddings and as a flower in the wedding bouquet. This lovely pure white Peony produces average flowers, which makes the Peony Duchesse de Nemours perfect for bouquets and combining with other flowers. We love the Peony Duchesse de Nemours because of its smell, this complete package makes the Peony Duchesse de Nemours most wanted among gardeners.

About the Peony Duchesse de Nemours

- The Peony Duchesse de Nemours needs to be planted in fall, from September to October.
- The 'nose' of the plant needs to be in the ground for 0.5"; (1-2 cm).
- Plant the bare-roots not too deep or too shallow, if the plant is planted too deep, the plant doesn't flower.
- Don't move peonies to a different spot, this will stop the plant from flowering.
- Fertilize the Peony Duchesse de Nemours once or twice a year with organic compost. This will make the plant grow fantastic.

Cut flowers Peony Duchesse de Nemours

The double, pure white flowers grow on strong stems that reach 40"; (103 cm). These large stems are perfect for cut flowers in a vase, in a bridal bouquet, for grave pieces and flower bouquets. The flowers grow into a rose-shaped flower with a spherical shape. The spherical flowerheads start small but end with a diameter of 5"; (13 cm).
